TouchPoint Medical, Inc. Launches next generation medDispense®

Next generation automated medication dispensing delivers myriad of configuration and security options.

OLDSMAR, Fla. – December 10, 2019 – TouchPoint Medical, Inc. announced today that it has expanded its automated medication dispensing line with the next generation medDispense® series. The new medDispense product line delivers the highest level of dispensing options and security across one software platform.

medDispense supports a series of automated dispensing cabinets that allow single dose dispensing, single line item control and bulk item storage while using one software platform, medLogic™. The medDispense™ hardware range includes lockers for bulk storage, as well as metered progressive drawers for higher security medication dispensing, such as controlled drugs. The medLogic software platform that drives all of the hardware units, offers additional clinical modules for applications such as remote medication queuing, narcotics inventory management and reporting and system administration.

“Our next generation of the medDispense series delivers additional functionality and flexibility to help drive increased security, efficiency and value for healthcare providers,” said Mark Rickert, global product manager of medication management solutions. “With the release of our new medDispense series, TouchPoint Medical is providing our customers with a greater breadth of medication dispensing solutions that meet their specific nursing and pharmacy requirements.”
